

The Importance of Desexing your Pets

Do you have undesexed pets at home?
Has your pet had a litter of puppies or kittens?

If so, you could be contributing to the overwhelming pet overpopulation problem in Australia.

Shelters across Australia cannot cope with the amount of unwanted cats and dogs.

200,000 cats and dogs are being euthanased (killed) each year or 547 animals per day.

As a pet owner, it is your responsibility to not contribute to the shocking statistics.

For all creatures great and small.

Contact your local vet or the RSPCA on (02) 9770 7555
and have your pet desexed today.
